DESCRIPTION

Entering the garden in the East Village feels like you've stumbled upon a great secret for the first time. As you step off the bustling New York City streets and enter the tranquil patio you instantly feel a sense of relief as you're transported to the European style courtyard. The large garden hosts 20 marble tables scattered throughout brick inlay patio. Towering trees cascade above providing a wonderful shade it the warmer months. The garden is perfect for a romantic date, large family dinner, or drinking the night away.
